

Analytics Frontiers Conference
Call for Presentations
Deadline: November 15th, 2022

About the Conference

UNC Charlotte's School of Data Science is pleased to announce the eighth annual Analytics Frontiers Conference. The conference will be held in person on the campus of UNC Charlotte, Thursday, March 9, 2023. This one-day event will be hosted the UNC Charlotte Marriott Hotel & Conference Center. We are excited to welcome Truist as the title sponsor for the 2023 Analytics Frontier Conference.

Conference Audience

Analytics Frontiers showcases the industry's top leaders and innovators in data science. As the Southeast's largest conference of its kind, this annual event connects C-level executives, top data scientists, researchers, entrepreneurs, academia, and government leaders together to share ideas, network and advance the region as a leading technology hub. With approximately 400-500 attendees, Analytics Frontiers aims to attract an elite group of professionals who are among the field's top influencers. Industries represented include financial, healthcare, energy, retail, government, transportation and logistics, manufacturing, and technology. With over a dozen Fortune 500 companies headquartered in Charlotte -- and many more in Atlanta and the Research Triangle areas -- the region has become a top technology hub for data science and analytics professionals.
